

PRIVACY POLICY

"Medical and Science Media" are committed to ensuring your online privacy with respect to third parties.

We will not sell, or give away your personal details including name, e-mail address, physical address, or telephone number, or any other details supplied, to any individual, or business. We use this information for the sole purpose of completing your transaction, and if you register, to send you our Newsletter.

For convenience you can now open an account. During this procedure you are only asked for your contact details, no credit card details are taken. Although we do ask for your e-mail address we only use it to notify you of your order status when you place an order. If you want to receive Newsletters you will have to either indicate this when you order by ticking the appropriate box, or register using the online registration form.

"Medical and Science Media" do not retain credit card details. After an order has been completed the card details are removed from the system.

Thank you.
